

LAMINA 1

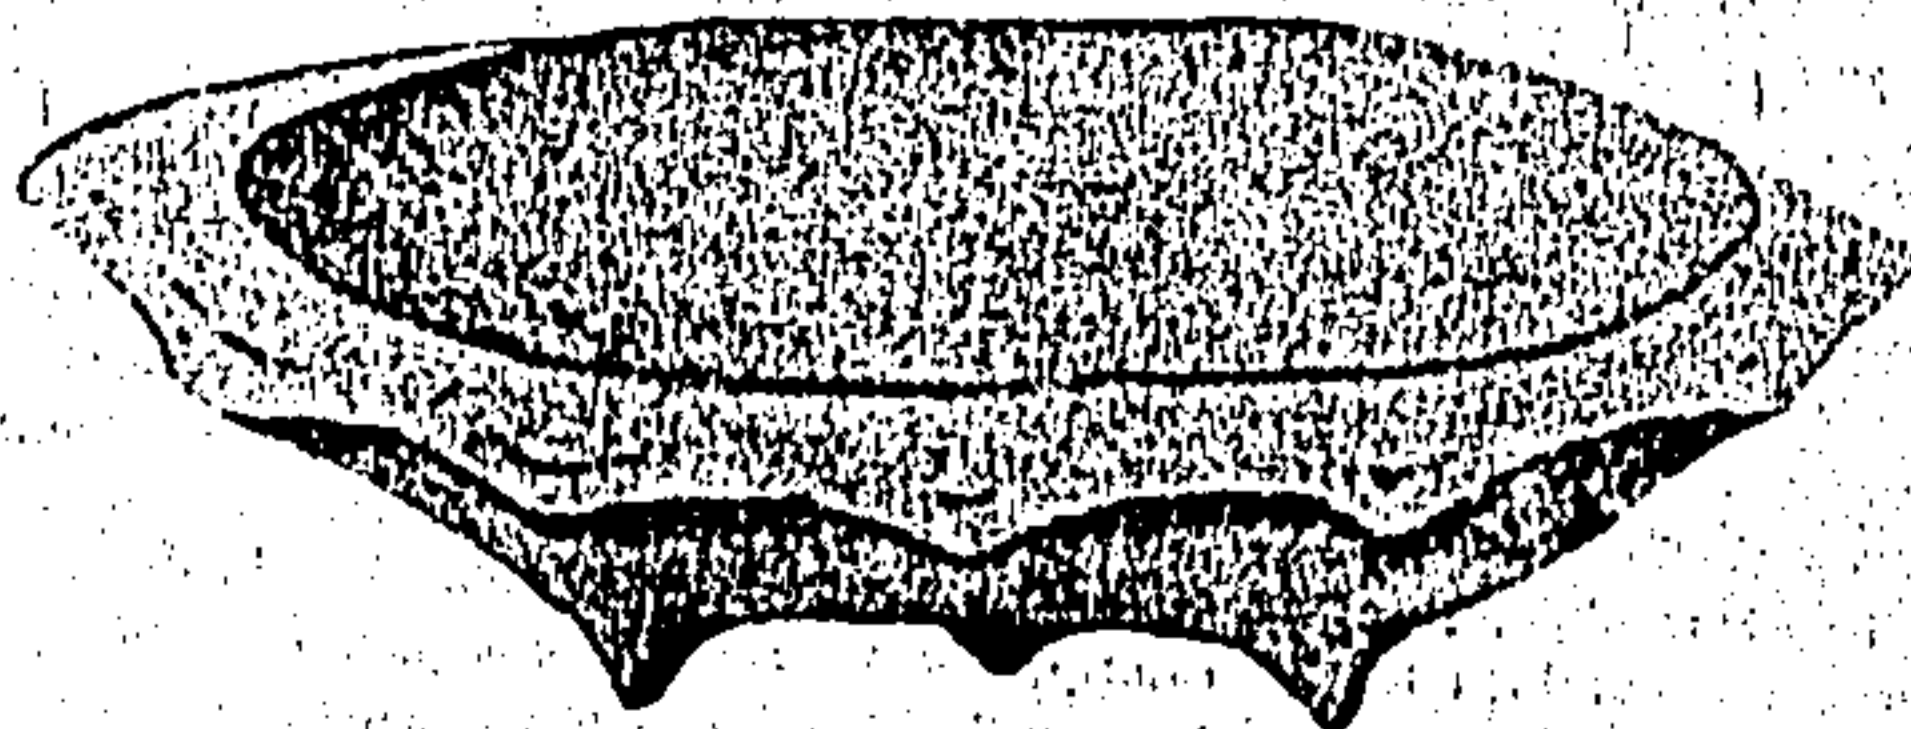

forent races, languages, features and dresses, and we have remarked that whenever they had to take any resolution regarding to their business, they went into calm and peace-ful deliberation, and once a resolution had been attained, it was accepted and carefully carried on unanimously by all of the group. If we take in consideration that all the rests of Indian tribes now living in Spanish America have been carelessly abandoned to themselves without providing them subordinados o dependientes de lo que hoy es Congrega-ción de la Palma.

LAMINA 3

De esta especie de descripción se pueden deducir varias conclusiones importantes. Imaginamos que todas aquellas villas y ciudades que rodeaban a la más grande, estu-vieron sometidas a una organización política común, la cual ha de haber tenido un régimen monárquico u otro semejan-te, porque la sola idea de aquella extensión de tierra des-

LAMINA 2

4 bis