An Enjoyable Afternoon

On Friday afternoon Mrs. D. B. Gardner entertained a number of ladies at one of her enjoyable bridge parties. The dainty rooms need little extraneous decorations for they are so fresh and attractive, but a few flowers in each added to their brightness.

At four tables sixteen players contended for highest score. Mrs. Jay Hendry made top score of the afternoon as well as highest at her table, and she received the prize over her three competitors; Mrs. Lawrence Shields won at her table; Mrs. C. C. Frost carried off the honors from her three opponents, while Mrs. Harry Wright was the fortunate one at her table. To each of the four winners was presented a beautiful lace handkerchief the work of the deft fingers of the hostess.

Two rubbers were played, when Mrs. Gardner invited the ladies into the dining room to the long table, that was a picture in its pink rose adornments, the polished surface reflecting back the pink loveliness. Mrs. William Carney gracefully presided over the coffee urn, while Mrs. Gardner served the Waldorf salad, sandwiches, ices, cakes, bonbons and almonds, with the assistance of the white-aproned maids.

Echeverria—Gorozpe

Santa Brigida was the scene of a fashionable and aristocratic wedding on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, when Miss Maria Echeverria became the bride of Mr. Ignacio Gorozpe. The old church was exquisitely decorated for the happy event with thousands of fragrant white blossoms arranged in wreaths, paneaux and crescents, disposed artistically around the walls and pillars. The altar was especially beautiful with its tall golden vases filled with tropical white lilies, from among which shone the lights of many candles and electric bulbs. Potted plants were placed around the walls and gave the effect of a garden, which was heightened by the towering branches of palms.

The bridal party entered to the strains of the processional, executed by a fine orchestra. The sponsors were Mr. Pedro Manuel Gorozpe and Mrs. Emilia J. de Echeverria; Mr. Pedro Echeverria and Miss Dolores Gorozpe. The bride was exceedingly handsome in a Paquin creation of heavy ivory white satin trimmed lavishly in old rose point lace. The long train was outlined by a narrow flounce of lace, and the front panel of the skirt was draped, peplum fashion, with lace of the same cob-webby quality. The bodice was overlaid with lace, which was embroidered in tiny seed pearls in floral pattern, following the design of the lace. The elbow sleeves were trimmed in rose point medallions, and were finished by a deep fall of the lace. Over this chic toilette was worn a tulle de soie veil that was caught to the dark hair by a chaplet of orange blossoms. The gauzy folds fell to the knees, the immensely long train and enhanced the beauty of the bride. She carried a bouquet of orange flowers veiled in tulle, and tied with long streamers of broad liberty ribbon.

At the close of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gorozpe repaired to the sacristy to register and receive the congratulations and good wishes of their friends.

The civil marriage took place at 5:30 o'clock in the same afternoon at the home of the bride, the witnesses being Mr. Alberto Echeverria, Mr. Alvaro Fernandez de Valle, Mr. Manuel Buch, Mr. Pedro M. Perret—Elizondo

One of the most beautiful weddings of the week was that of Miss Maria de Carmen Perret, daughter of Mr. Henry Perret, Swiss consul general in Mexico, and Mrs. Alina D. de Perret, to Mr. Emilio Elizondo, on Saturday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, in the church of the Sagrado Corazon de Jesus, Esquina de Calles de Londres and Roma, Colonia Juarez.

For the auspicious occasion the bijou chapel was adorned with wreaths of gardenias and palms. This is the first wedding that has taken place in the handsome church since its dedication several weeks ago, and it made an exquisite setting for the bridal picture. Around the delicately tinted walls were arranged at intervals large wreaths of gardenias, from the tops of which rose plummy palms. The wreaths were caught together by broad draperies of diaphanous white chiffon, thus forming one continuous decoration. The altar was ablaze with lighted candles in golden candlesticks, while hundreds of electric lights jemmied the arches and walls near the hand-painted ceiling. The air was heavy with the perfume of the flowers, and the church was filled with many elegantly gowned matrons and maids.

To Mendelssohn's Wedding March the bridal party entered. The sponsors were Mr. Henry Perret and Mrs. Alina D. de Perret; Mr. Rafael Sagredo and Mrs. Josefa S. Vda. de Elizondo. During the wedding ceremony and the high nuptial mass the orchestra rendered several appropriate selections.

The bride was a vision of rare loveliness in her bridal gown of white satin crepe de chine. The skirt was en traine, with a narrow band of satin around it. It was fitted to the slender and graceful figure by small tucks at the waist. The bodice was of crepe de chine with a deep V back and front of English rose point. The V was outlined on the material by a narrow bias band of white liberty satin, which was studded with tiny knots in which were tucked orange blossoms. A vaporous illusion veil was fastened to the fair hair by a half wreath of orange blossoms, and fell to the end of the long train. She carried a bouquet of orange blossoms, tied with white ribbon.

At the close of the ceremony the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elizondo crowded around them to extend their good wishes and congratulations.

The civil marriage took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, on Calle de los Arquitectos. Among the witnesses were Mr. Justo Sierra, minister of public instruction and fine arts, and Mr. Joaquin Casaus, former ambassador to the United States. A pleasant social event of the week was the celebration of the twelfth anniversary of their wedding by the Reverend Mr. Jackson E. Cox and Mrs. Cox, on Thursday evening, at the paragon on Avenida Balderas, from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock, between which hours their numerous friends called to pay their respects and to wish them many happy returns of the day.

The parlor, in which the receiving line stood, was gay with vases and bowls of crimson gladioli. The dining room was pretty in pink. The table bore a centerpiece of pink poppies and four brass candlesticks with shades of pink crepe paper, while arranged around the room were several vases holding the rose blossoms. An effective decoration was a high, narrow shelf upon which was a fine collection of old china. The room in which the punch was served was done in harlequin gladioli.

In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Cox and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Butler, with Miss Lillian Wester acting as introducer.

Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Butler were both gowned in white, while Miss Wester was in a toilette of white mill with black lace applications.

Mrs. Daniel J. Bohan and Miss Esther Case assisted in the parlor, making everyone feel at his or her ease.

Mrs. Bohan wore a stunning gown in white Liere lace over white taffeta and chiffon. Miss Case was in a costume of black silk.

The delicious punch was served by Miss Ora Kerby, Miss Celia Davis, Miss Cornelia Godbey, Miss Hilda Glenn and Miss Margarita Hernandez.

In the dining-room at different hours the coffee was poured from the handsome silver coffee urn by Mrs. George Y. Payzant, Mrs. Walter Scott Murdoch, Mrs. J. C. Kidder, while the dainty viands were served by Miss Bancroft, Miss Willie Grissette, Miss Alice Bohan, Miss Lucy Link and Miss Elodia Diaz.

The pleasure of the evening was added to by music on the violin and piano, and by Mrs. B. C. Roach's exquisite singing, with Mrs. Bohan as accompanist. Mrs. Roach has a magnificent voice, which has been highly cultivated, and she sings with great expression and feeling.
